Create your own healthy plate

My choice is

Get calcium from non-fat or low-fat dairy, such as milk or a serving of light yogurt, or from calcium fortified soy milk.
Add a serving of fruit at mealtime or for a healthy snack.
Fill the left $\frac{1}{2}$ of your plate with fresh and cooked fruits and non-starchy vegetables .
Pick a protein such as lean meat, fish, or poultry for $\frac{1}{4}$ of your plate.
Your choice of bread, pasta or a starchy vegetable (such as potatoes) will round out the other $\frac{1}{4}$ of your plate. Half the grains you eat throughout the day should be whole grains.

Balance calories

- Enjoy your food, but eat less.
- Avoid oversized portions.

Other actions to take

- Lower salt and sodium intake. Compare sodium in foods like soup, bread, and frozen meals—and choose the foods with lower numbers.
- Drink water instead of sugary drinks.
- Switch to fat-free or low-fat (1%) milk.
